

SIDE EVENT

HUMAN RIGHTS IMPLICATIONS OF ENVIRONMENTAL CRIME

Crimes that affect the environment have direct consequences for the enjoyment of human rights, including the rights to life, health, food, water, culture and a clean, healthy and sustainable environment. This side event will explore how human rights considerations can be better integrated into emerging global responses to environmental crime, including to protect the rights of Indigenous Peoples, environmental human rights defenders, local communities, and others affected by environmental crimes.

3 JULY 1:00 PM - 2:00 PM
ROOM XI, PALAIS DES NATIONS

SPEAKERS:

- Clément Voule, Human Rights Expert at the African Commission and the United Nations
- Sonia Peña Moreno, International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN)
- Rob Parry-Jones, World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF)
- Speakers from Member States (tbc)
- Felix Kirchmeier, Geneva Human Rights Hub (GHRH)

